

Description

Quest for Growth is a Belgian investment company focused on listed and unlisted growth companies with the objective of converting capital gains into tax-free income through the Privak-structure.

Investment cases

- Quest's investors benefit from Belgium's Privak statute, thanks to which the gross dividend is net of taxes
- Quest has a dynamically managed portfolio of listed stocks, leaving it vulnerable to the market's momentum
- Quest's unlisted investments have been subject to writedowns against a background of a frozen M&A market
- Our rating is entirely based on valuation grounds, as the stock is trading at relatively high discount levels

06-05-2010: TP and rating increase following April NAV update

NAV at end-April increased to € 7.56 per share, versus € 7.42 at end-March (+1.9% m/m, +4.3% YTD). The stock increased a tad to € 4.50 (+2.3% m/m) m, -3.2% YTD), due to which the discount remained more or less level with the end-March reading at 40.48%. Quest made some changes to its listed portfolio, upping stakes in Unit 4 Agresso, Roche Holdings, Imtech, Pfeiffer and Centrotec and lowering positions in Wirecard, Séloger, TKH group, Andritz, Arcadis and Vestas Wind Systems.. Quest didn't add new investments to the ranks, but disposed entirely of its Tandberg stake (which was subject to a takeover offer by Cisco). Combined, the listed portfolio totals € 56.5m and accounts for 61.5% of NAV. Listed assets break down in Software & Services (14.7%), Technology & Hardware (10.2%), Pharma & Biotech (4.6%), Healthcare Equipment (2.8%), Electrical & Engineering (16.1%) and Materials (5.6%). Quoted/unquoted assets (i.e. Movetis) account for 7.4% of NAV. The value of the direct Private Equity stakes wasn't subject to some adjustments as well. Quest halved the carrying value of Active Circle (from € 0.8m to € 0.4m) and converted the £ 0.28m Sphere Medical loan note into equity (this was already confirmed on the 1Q10 analyst meeting). The valuation of most of the 3rd Party funds was adjusted to reflect YE09 standing: valuation in general remained steady with previously reported levels. The direct and indirect PE portfolios are valued at a respective € 16.4m and € 8.3m. Combined, PE stakes account for € 24.7m, or 26.75% of adjusted equity. We currently estimate net cash at € 9.1m (9.9% of NAV), which includes the valuation of options and other items on the balance sheet. The official NAV figure still hovers south of our NAV estimate, due to a lock-up discount to the Movetis stake that shaves off around € 0.7 p.s. of the official NAV estimate. We are disappointed about the negative valuation adjustment at the level of Active Circle investment, but in general continue to believe that the underlying valuation of PE portfolio is stable. We estimate adjusted equity value per share at € 7.82. We note that despite a broad number of past writedowns in the Private Equity portfolio and the fact that it has few options to create value via exits (IPO or trade sale), valuations are still undemanding: Quest's NAV performance relative to its stock price and its benchmark indices has held up quite well; the discount currently hovers a tad below 44%. We therefore decided to increase our TP from € 5.25 to € 5.5, which reduces the implied discount versus NAV to 30%. The upside potential from current trading levels amounts to 25%, which prompted us to increase our rating from Accumulate

23-04-2010: 1Q10 marks 4th consecutive quarterly profit

Quest in 1Q10 booked a € 2.08m profit (€ 0.18 p.s.), marking the 4th consecutive quarterly period that was written in black. The profit compares with a 1Q09 loss of € 2.07m (€ 0.18 p.s.) and FY09 profit of € 18.07m (€ 1.53 p.s.). Quest's monthly NAV updates had already unveiled that equity p.s. at end-1Q10 climbed to € 7.42 p.s., versus € 7.25 at end-FY09 (+2.3% ytd), while the stock decreased to € 4.40 (+-5.4% ytd). As a result of the surprisingly negative stock price evolution, the discount narrowed to 40.7% (versus 35.9% at end-FY09). The 2.3% YTD rise of NAV compares with a 12.9% rise of the benchmark Nasdaq index (triggered by the rise of the USD vs. the EUR) and a 6.7% increase of the New Market 50 index. Overall, the first quarter brought little excitement for Quest for Growth. In terms of profitability the listed portfolio (again) accounts for almost all of the result, as the small-cap and speciality investor continued to profit from a sharp increase of speciality stocks (that lagged up until YE09). Earnings contribution from the privately-held portfolio amounted to € 0.2m, but the portfolio's underlying valuation has certainly stabilised; the need to impair valuations has evaporated and peer group valuations have risen on the back of higher economic growth expectations. Quest has also witnessed an improvement in the overall quality of new investment proposals for PE investments, which - coupled with more realistic valuation expectations - could indicate more investment activity further down the road. During 1Q10, Quest's AGM approved the proposed agreement between the company and Quest Management NV. The fee decreased from € 1.9m (€ 0.16 p.s.) to a fixed annual level of € 1.5bn (€ 0.13 p.s.). The agreement kicked in on 1 April 2010 and runs over 12 months. The Global Cost Ratio (all costs carried by QfG versus NAV) will be kept below 3.5 %. Going forward, Quest believes that the economic recovery will persist, even in Europe, but also that the period of bargains on the stock markets, which have taken a head start on future growth, seems to be mostly over. The 1Q10 profit confirms an earlier reported increase in monthly NAV. Despite having closed yet another quarter in the black, Quest's balance sheet still carries € 24.7m of carried-over losses; investors better not bank on the payment of a dividend anytime soon. On the bright side, having taken a number of impairments at the level of the unlisted portfolio in FY09 abides well, as this might have increased the underlying potential and quality of the Private Equity portfolio (both direct and indirect). We estimate adjusted equity value per share at € 7.62 with a dazzling 41.7% discount. Awaiting the outcome of an analyst meeting, scheduled of 11AM today, we stick to our Accumulate rating and € 5.25 TP.

06-04-2010: March update unveils NAV rise of 2.1% m/m

NAV at end-March increased to € 7.42 per share, versus € 7.27 at end-February (+2.1% m/m, +2.3% YTD). The stock hovered more or less steady at € 4.40 (+1.1% m/m, -5.4% YTD), due to which the discount remained level with the end-February reading at 40.70%. Quest made some changes to its listed portfolio, upping stakes in WireCard, Ablynx, Teva Pharmaceuticals and Arcadis and lowering positions in Unit 4 Agresso, EVS and TKH Group. Quest didn't add new investments to the ranks, but sold all of its Téléperformance, Wilex and Solar Millennium shares. Combined, the listed portfolio totals € 57.7m and accounts for 65% of NAV. Listed assets break down in Software & Services (14.9%), Technology & Hardware (11.3%), Pharma & Biotech (4.7%), Healthcare Equipment (2.9%), Electrical & Engineering (17.5%) and Materials (6.1%). Quoted/unquoted assets (i.e. Movetis) account for 7.7% of NAV. The value of the direct Private Equity stakes wasn't subject to changes and there was few to no important activity in the 3rd Party fund portfolio either. The direct and indirect PE portfolios are valued at a respective € 15.6m and € 8.4m. Combined, PE stakes account for € 24.6m, or 28% of adjusted equity. The official NAV figure still hovers south of our NAV estimate, due to a lock-up discount to the Movetis stake that shaves off around € 0.8 p.s. of the official NAV estimate. Our SOTP model, however, applies actual market values. The discount currently stands at 40.1%; we again state that we believe this level to be unjustifiably high for a dynamic investment company such as Quest, despite a broad number of past writedowns in the Private Equity portfolio and the fact that it has few options to create value via exits (IPO or trade sale). Our adjusted equity value estimate amounts to € 7.52, leaving upside potential of 16.6%. Accumulate rating maintained with a € 5.25 target price (30% discount to target equity value).

18-03-2010: Fixed management fee fixed at €1.75m

Quest for Growth at yesterday's AGM announced the details of the adjusted agreement between the company and Quest Management NV. The fee for managing QfG decreases from \in 1.9m (\in 0.16 p.s.) to a fixed annual level of \in 1.5bn (\in 0.13 p.s.). The agreement kicks in as from 1 April 2010 and runs over 12 months. Both parties agreed to keep the Global Cost Ratio (all costs carried by QfG versus NAV) below 3.5 %. Should the management fee drop below 1.5 % p.a., an adjustment of the agreement will also be considered between both parties. Based on the last published portfolio update (end-February 2010), the fee amounts to 1.75% of NAV (previously: 2.27 %). Going by our current NAV estimate, which is based on yesterday's closing prices and which doesn't include an IPO discount on Movetis, the management fee amounts to 1.69%. But this NAV figure includes 3rd Party Fund investments totalling \in 8.4m, on which Quest pays fees of its own, so that in our view the new management fee amounts to 1.97% of "adjusted" NAV and 3.25% of Quest market capitalisation (due to the elevated discount). Even when the 1.75% compares with a list of peers that charge even bulkier fees, we believe this isn't exactly cheap in the framework of remuneration structures of Benelux Holding & Investment companies. As a reminder, QfG's management is also compensated via dividends on its "preferred" stock, an effect that isn't in play now but upon reinstalling dividend flows will kick in as well. We estimate adjusted equity value p.s at \in 7.51. The 38.9% discount far from reflects the company's underlying value and in our view is explained by the
